WHO FIRED THE BALL THAT KILLED SAWNIE BRYAN.

So Say the Jury Who Heard and Sitted the Evidence-Williams is Arrested and Jailed.

investigation of the Bryan murder yesterday morning, It had been rumored that some witnesses would be put on the stand who would give some startling revelations, and there was a pretty good hear what they would be.

The coroner got to work a little after eleven o'clock, and called up the wit-

Andrew Simmons, col. said he lived about a mile from the place of the killing, and on the Saturday night of the murder, he heard two shots - thought they were pistel shots in close success ion. He said that Mr. Whitfield had told him at one time that the land was posted, and he now guessed that "they" (uo names) would quit doing so much mischief down there. On one occasion some parties had torn a floor out of an old gin house on Mr. Whitfield's land, and made a gangway across the creek. He had heard shooting in that vicinity several times, and heard some one shoot ing on Sunday, after the murder. Had never heard any threats by Mr. Whit. case. field. The witness gave a description of the cabin occupied by Ike Williams, and the furniture in it, but said he never saw any guns or firearms in it. He did not know Williams' business down there, but had heard that he attended to Never heard of any threats by Williams. and the coroner was sent for.

up the river? Answer. No. The witness said he had heard Bob which the killing had occurred, and he fishing on the river that night. The witness did not know of any hard feelings existing between Pulley and Bryan, and had never heard Bryan s; oken of as Calvin Bagwell was called. He did not know, personally, Whitfield or Brown. Ike Williams had told him that Mr. Whitfield had offered a reward of $2,00 to anybody who would catch Ed. Yarboro, Rob Pulley, Sawney Bryan, or Henry Fowler on his lands. Williams also had told him (witness) that Mr. Whitfield objected to anybody's hunting on his lands. This talk occurred on the second Sunday in May. The witness said that on one Saturday (didn't remember date) Sawnie Bryan asked Mr. Whitfield for permission to fish. Whitfield said, "I have no objection to your fishing there, but I want to see Mr. Brown first." Bryan then said; "Mr. Whitfield, I have heard of a heap of d-n hard things you have been saying about me, and I want to know what you have against me." Mr. Whitfield said: "I have nothing in the world against you." Witness then left the two parties and heard no more. He heard Ed Yarborough say he went to where these two men were talking and that Yarborough said that Whitfield objected to Bryan's going on the land.

Henry Fowler said that the had formerly lived on the land, and had been instructed to move off by Mr. Brown. Soon after moving by Messrs. Geo. Snow and Armistead laying of the corner-stone of the new off he came to town to see Mr. Whitfield Jones, attorneys, to sue out a writ of Cho Hall, at Princeton College, N. J., on some personal business. At that habeas corpus for Williams. time Mr. Whitfield said that it seemed several parties down there were trying to boss the land; that Sawnie Bryan had tackled Mr. Brown somewhere; that he (Whitfield) wanted Bryan to tackle him once, and if he didn't down hin-!-!-! Witness had never been prohibited from fishing on the lands.

Patrick Snipes said he had a conversa-Julius Lewis & Co.'s store where Whitfield was.

Witness said: "Mr. Whitfield you nevbut I go down to Pool's mill where I have some traps. I was down there one night this week and cleaned out a fellow who was down there. I have that land posted, and I have employed a man to keep certain parties off the lahd. I don't care about the others, but if those certain parties don't stay off I'll kill them.'

them if you are not there all the time." Whitfield said, "I have Mr. Williams down there, and he will shoot them if they don't stay off. I have Williams employed to attend to the traps also." Witness then left Whitfield and Pulley talking together and heard no more.

Witness asked, "How can you kill

Whitfield called no names. Heny Pool said he lived on Whitfield and Brown's land about 13 miles from the place of the killing. He knew Williams, and sometimes went down to his cabin. Williams had told him that he had shot down there every time he heard a stick crack, and expected that he (Williams) had shot at his (Pool's) dog. Wil-authority he shot around there. Witness said that he was employed by Whitfield to put in some fish traps, and he had put in some, getting the neighborhood boys to le'p him. Rebt. Puland my crops too, so he took the traps."

liams never told him why or by what "I was down at Williams' on Sunday Monday June 2d. morning after Bryan was killed. Between nine and ten o'clock Mr. Brown came down to the traps and said "I suppose Sawnie Bryan is killed." Wilhams said: "I am very sorry he is dead." I said I believe I will go up and see Bryan." Mr. Brown told us that Bryan was killed near the mouth of Crabtree, and said he heard two shots the night before. The witness said that he did not think Williams had been down to the shanty since Bryan had been killed. Williams kept one gun (double barrell) in the shanty all the time, and he had seen a new looking pistol there.

Calvin Bagwell was recalled and said. when he was down at Williams' shanty, he saw a large old looking pistol lying on a shelf near the shanty. He could not describe the pistol and he did not know whether it shot cartridges, or carried caps

There were a number of pistols on the coroner's table, all of which had been collected in the vicinity in which the murder occurred. One of these was a bright looking double action revolver, which Williams had been keeping at his hut, but which he carried up to Mr. Brown's house after the killing of Bryan. Coroner J. B. H. Knight resumed the The sheriff therefore got the pistol from Mr. Brown. It was impossible that this should be the weapon that fired the fatal ball, for it is a cartridge pistol, whereas, it is well established that the ball which killed Bryan is a meu'ded tall and was sized curious crowd in the court room to shot from a muzzle loading weapon carrying percussion caps. Calvin Bagwell's evidence was the only testimony given which showed that Williams had any other weapon than this pistol and a shot gun. His evidence shows that Williams had another pistol, -an old looking one; -but the witness could not tell whether it was a cap and ball pistol, or a cartridge pistol. Mr. Keuster said that the pistol which had been procured at Pulley's house bore no evidence of having been recently fired. He would say that it had not been fired in a month. One or two other witnesses were examined, but brought out nothing of interest on either side. Solicitor Argo then made a statement to the jury, telling them their duties, after which the coroner gave them the The court then adjourned to 4 o'clock, but the jury were instructed that if they reached a verdict before that time, they might send for the coroner who would strike a paying business. The scheme receive their verdict.

It was "Children's Day" at the First Baptist church, and a bright and interesting day it was. The main audience room was very prettily decorated with flowers. The front section was reserved for the childern and there were several hundred of them in the church at the morning service. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Carter, D. D., preached a children's sermon at the morning service, and at 3.30 in the afternoon the many children of the Sunday school gave a very delightful entertainment to an audience as large as the church would hold.

Mr. R. G. Mills, of House's Creek township, had a sow with ten young pigs Dec. 9, '89. On the 19th day of May, when they were just five months and ten days old, they were killed and the ten weighed 1900 pounds, or an average of 190 lbs. each, and were sold in the Raleigh market at 7 cents per pound. The mother of these pigs now has eleven pigs that were born May 24, '90.

A Raleigh gentleman who was driving through the country last week says that he passed an old negro weman's cabin which looked so neat and clean as to excite his attention and interest. To use his expression, the ground around the cabin was clean enough to eat off of. He asked the old woman some questions and during the confab she told him that she had eleven children living in the cabin, had four or five in the back country and there were some more of them scattered about somewhere. She said she didn't know exactly how many children she

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

New York, May 26.-Messrs. Hubbard, Price & Co. in their cotton circular to-night say: Foreign markets remain closed until Wednesday morning, but our market has proved an interesting one without their assistance. The feature has been the continued buying of July by foreign houses, evidently to close previous sales made against their holdings of cotton abroad. So sharp was the demand that the market advanced with scarcely a reaction until the close, which was steady at about the best prices. The advance appears to meet with no resistance from the larger interests in the market, as they appear quite willing to remain inactive, looking on while the demand earries prices above a parity with Liverpool and attracts cotton to New York. Already we hear of several shipments of estion held in Southern markets, coming here for delivery upon this market. Receipts are full, but without effect upon prices, which are now under the influence of buying by the shorts. Spinners bought freely last week, but the transactions were made direct, not appearing until to-day. Sentiment favors a still further advance in cotton.

Receipts at our ports to-day estimated at 4,000 bales, against 4,498 bales last week.

The spot market is nominal at 1.16 advance in prices; middling uplands 12 7-16 cents.; sales 319 bales. Transactions in futures to-day 40,000

The New York Chamber of Commerce, in their thirty-second annual report, pub lish a careful review of the tea trade, giving special attention to a me gross abuses calculated to curtail the use of tea. The report says:

"The demand for le -priced common tea is growing in ite: ally, lessening the use of good and fine teas, and the efforts of the trade to supply customers with tea for price will result in lessening the consumption of teas. It encourages the importation of common tea, and must result disastrously to the business. The producing countries can supply an unlimited quantity of poor tea that is really not fit for consumption. "Prizes which have been given away by retail stores, possibly may account somewhat for the demand for low-grade teas, but it seems hardly credible that consumers expect to get as good a tea with a prize, at a certain price, as they could obtain for the same price and not pay for the extra article."
